

I am upset by Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election. It is bad enough that they force political editorials on their affiliates. It seems ironic that they want more freedom from FCC regulation, but their tactics seems to show that they (a) do not want us to have the freedom to watch what we want, and that (b) they need more—not less—regulation. In short, Sinclair, rather than serving local, public interest is serving its own corporate, political interests.

Thank you,
